DISTRICT OF PENNSYLVANIA, TO WIT:

BE IT REMEMBERED, That on the seventeenth day of April, in the thirty-third year of the Independence of the United States of America, A. D. 1809, Zadok Cramer, of the said district, hath deposited in this office, the title of a book, the right whereof he claims as proprietor, in the words following, to wit:

"THE UNITED STATES' SPELLING BOOK, WITH APPROPRIATE READING LESSONS: BEING AN EASY STANDARD FOR SPELLING, READING AND PRONOUNCING THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE, ACCORDING TO THE RULES ESTABLISHED BY JOHN WALKER, IN HIS CRITICAL AND PRONOUNCING DICTIONARY. By sundry experienced teachers."

In conformity to the act of the Congress of the United States, intituled, "An Act for the encouragement of Learning, by securing the copies of maps, charts, and books, to the authors and proprietors of such copies during the times therein mentioned." And also to the Act, entitled, "An Act supplementary to an Act, entitled, "An Act for the encouragement of Learning, by securing the copies of maps, charts, and books, to the authors and proprietors of such copies, during the times therein mentioned," and extending the benefits thereof to the arts of designing, engraving, and etching historical and other prints."

D. CALDWELL,
Clerk of the District of Pennsylvania.

PREFACE.

NOTWITHSTANDING the multiplicity of Spelling Books already extant, our country seems to have wanted one with which its numerous and growing schools might depend on getting a regular and uniform supply. Having reflected much on this subject, we determined on the publication of one, which should embrace such matter and on a plan, as from experience, we judged to be best calculated for the instruction of youth. We have at length completed our object, and with deference present it to the Public, but without any pretensions to originality. Many, and of superior merit, have gone before us on this subject, and not to have profited by their labours would have been treating them with neglect.

In spelling, pronunciation, and in the division of syllables, we have been guided principally by Walker's Critical and Pronouncing Dictionary, which is generally acknowledged to be the best in the English language.

The plan of the geographical tables, we think, will be found beneficial, as tending to expand the minds of youth, and excite a taste for reading on subjects of geography.

Of grammar, we have said but little, since we could not give a complete system, without destroying the utility of the book for at least nine-tenths of its readers.

The American chronology will be found useful as a record of national history, citing events too important for our children to lose the sight of.

The materials and execution of the work have been carefully attended to. Upon the whole, we have assiduously aimed at the production of a useful school book; how far we may have succeeded, must be left to the decision of an enlightened people, at whose tribunal, we, with due deference, submit ourselves and the fate of our Spelling Book.

Pittsburgh, May 12, 1809.

Of the Alphabetical Pronunciation of the Letter A.

Mr Walker observes, "We are to inquire what is the true name of the first letter of the English alphabet—whether we are to say Aye, B, C; Ah, B, C; or Aw, B, C.

And first, it will be necessary to consider the nature of a vowel; which grammarians are generally agreed in defining to be a "simple articulate sound, formed by the impulse of the voice by "the opening only of the mouth in a particular manner." Now, as every vowel by itself is sounded long, as nothing but its junction with a consonant can make it otherwise, it is natural, when pronouncing this vowel alone, to give it the long open sound; but as this long open sound is threefold, as heard in face, father and water, a question arises which of these long sounds shall we adopt as a common name to the whole species of this letter? The English make choice of the a in face, the Irish of that in father, and the Scotch of that in water. Each party produces words where the letter a is sounded in the manner they contend for; but when we demand why one should have the preference, the controversy is commonly at an end; any farther reasons are either too remote or too insignificant to be produced; and indeed, if a diversity of names to vowels did not confound us in our spelling, or declaring to each other the component letters of a word, it would be entirely needless to enter into so trifling a question as the mere name of a letter; but when we find ourselves unable to convey signs to each other on account of this diversity of names, and that words themselves are endangered by an improper utterance of the component parts, it seems highly incumbent on us to attempt a uniformity in this point, which, insignificant as it may seem, is undoubtedly the foundation of a just and regular pronunciation.

The first rule for naming a letter, when pronounced alone, seems to be this: Whatever sound we give to a letter when terminating a syllable, the same sound ought to be given to it when pronounced alone; because, in both cases, they have their primary, simple sound, uninfluenced by a succeeding vowel or consonant; and therefore, when we pronounce a letter alone, it ought to have such a sound as does not suppose the existence of any other letter. But wherever a terminates a syllable with the accent upon it, (the only state in which it can be said to be pure) it has always the English sound of that letter. The only exceptions to this rule are, the words fa- ther, ma- ster, and wa- ter; and that these are merely exceptions, appears from the uniformity with which the a is pronounced otherwise in parent, papal, taper, fatal, &c. The other vowels have their names exactly similar to the sound they have in a similar situation, as the e like that in me-grim, the i like the i in ti-tle, the o as the o in noble, and the u like the u in tu-tor. Thus, as it appears from the general analogy of pronunciation, that the sound of the a which the English adopt, is the only one that does not necessarily suppose the existence of any other sound, it inevitably follows that their's only is the proper appellation of that letter."

Sounds of the simple and diphthongal vowels as defined by Mr. Walker.

1 a. The long slender English a, as in fate, pa-per, &c.
2 a. The long Italian a, as in far, fa-ther, pa-pa, mam-ma.
3 a. The broad German a, as in fall, wall, wa-ter.
4 a. The short sound of the Italian a, as in fat, mat, mar-ry.

1 e. The long e, as in me, here, me-tre, me-dium.
2 e. The short e, as in let, met, get.

1 i. The diphthongal i, as in pine, ti-tle.
2 i. The short simple i, as in pin, tit-tle.

1 o. The long open o, as in no, note, no-tice.
2 o. The long close o, as in move, prove.
3 o. The long broad o, as in nor, for, or; like the broad a.
4 o. The short broad o, as in not, hot, got.

1 u. The long diphthongal u, as in tube, cu-pid.
2 u. The short simple u, as in tub, cup, sup.
3 u. The middle or obtuse u, as in bull, full, pull.

oi. The long broad o, and the short i, as in oil.
ou. The long broad o, and the middle obtuse u, as in thou, pound.

UNITED STATES' SPELLING BOOK.

Having attentively perused the 'United States' Spelling Book,' published by Mr. Cramer of Pittsburgh; I am decidedly of opinion that it is better calculated for the improvement of the juvenile learner, than any yet published. The manifest advantages of this work over others of a similar nature, are too numerous to be here noticed. The key to pronunciation consisting of a few characters, well adapted to the capacities of youth, are obviously an improvement on the arbitrary use of the figures by Mr. Webster; which, by several years' experience I have found to be not easily understood by the younger class of learners.—The regular and judicious gradation of spelling tables, properly divided and accented, interspersed with a great variety of useful and entertaining lessons in reading, tend greatly to facilitate instruction, and reflect peculiar merit on the laudable exertions of the compilers. The table of 'words which are alike in sound, but different in spelling and signification,' appears hardly susceptible of improvement; also the additional tables of words nearly alike in sound—and words which are somewhat similar in sound, but vulgarly sounded alike, cannot but meet the entire approbation of every skilful instructor.

On the whole, I do not hesitate to say, that this work is in fact, what it professes to be, the production of 'experienced teachers;' and needs only to be known, to gain general use in American schools. O. C. B. STEWART.

Chilicothe, July 16*th*, 1810.

SIR,—I have (hastily) perused the 'United States' Spelling Book,' and am indeed well pleased with it; the spelling tables in my opinion are judiciously arranged, and the reading lessons will afford an agreeable entertainment to the young reader.

Upon the whole, I am better pleased with it than any I have yet seen. I am, Sir, with respect and esteem, your obedient, humble servant, NATHANIEL JOHNSON.

MR. ZADOK CRAMER.

MR. ZADOK CRAMER.

Sir,—From the rapid perusal which I have given the United States' Spelling Book, I have been induced to think it is well adapted for the purpose for which it is intended.

I am, Sir, respectfully yours,

JAMES M'ALLISTER.

Frankfort, Sept. 14*th*, 1810. [Teacher of the Languages.]

The following polite note was received from Mr. and Mrs. Beck, teachers of a young Ladies' academy, in Lexington, Kentucky.

Sir,—With much satisfaction I have perused the UNITED STATES' SPELLING BOOK—I think the plan of it superior, and the execution equal to any I have seen—I shall adopt it in my school, and, all in my power, recommend it to others. That it may be universally used and save the torment inflicted on teachers, by those miserably printed ones, we are deluged with, is the hearty wish, of sir, your's. GEO. BECK.

LESSON XXII.

We must pray for them that hate us, and try to do us harm.

Yea we must do to all men, as we like to be done to: for this is the way to please him that made us.

He must live well, that will die well.

He doth live ill, who doth not mend.

TABLE IX.

Words of five Letters; the first vowel having the long Sound.

scare	snare	spare	prate	slate	state
brave	crave	grave	shave	slave	stave
blaze	craze	glaze	graze	taste	waste

LESSON XXIII.

A bad life will make a bad end.

We must let the time past put us in mind of the ill we have done.

In the time to come we must do ill no more.

Be kind to all men and hurt not thyself.

LESSON XXIV.

In the Lord will I put my trust, and on him will I call, both day and night.

Let us call on his name, O my son, for it is he who made us all.

He will not fail to help all those who put their trust in him.

TABLE X.

Words of five Letters; the Vowel having the short sound.

* As in the first syllable of shal-low—Walker.

LESSON XXV.

I will call on the Lord, that he may save me from all those who seek my hurt.

Come all ye who fear him, that I may tell you what he hath done for my soul.

He will bless those who love him; the ends of the world shall fear him that made them.

LESSON XXVI.

When we go out and when we come in, we are not out of the sight of him that made us.

When we pray to him with a pure mind, he will hear us and help us: But if our mind be not pure when we pray to him, then he will not hear us.

LESSON XXVII.

Let our joy, my son, be in him that made us, and in them that love his ways.

He is nigh to all them that call on him.

It is good to draw near to him, that he may draw near to us.

I will call on him for help, that I may be safe from them that hate me.

LESSON XXVIII.

The Lord made thee my son, and all things.

He made thy eyes to see with, and thy ears to hear with, and thy teeth to eat with.

He made thy tongue to talk with, and thy feet to run and walk with.

He loves and takes care of good boys and good girls.

LESSON XXIX.

Good boys and good girls will do as they are bid.

They will love to read good books, and to hear good folks talk; but they must not talk too much themselves.

For we have two ears to hear with, and but one tongue to talk with.

Let this teach thee to hear much, but not talk much.

Love not the world, nor the things that are in the world; for all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eye; is not of him that made us; but is of the world.

If we put our trust in the Lord, we need not fear what flesh can do to us.

Though all that see me, mock me, though they shoot out their lips, and shake their heads; yet to thee, O Lord, will I lift up my soul.

O hide not thou thy face from me, but be thou with me all the day.

Thou shalt purge me, and I shall be clean, thou wilt wash me, and I shall be white as snow.

I will love thee, for thou hast made me, and art kind to me in all things.

Day by day will I praise thee; I will not be with such as take thy name in vain, nor go with them that love not thy law, and walk not in thy ways.

Thy way is in the sea, and thy paths in the deep.

Let the earth be glad, let the sea make a noise, and all that is in it sing thy praise.

The Lord will bless those that love him; let us serve him with our whole heart.

LESSON XXXVIII.

Let him that thinks he is safe, take heed lest he step out of the way and sin.

Some may run well for a time, but he that holds out to the end shall be safe.

Let us all do the best that we can; for this is the way to gain the love of him who made us.

As we would have men do to us, the same must we do to them.

LESSON XXXIX.

If we love none but those who love us, what thank have we? bad men do the same; but we must love our foes; pray for those who treat us with scorn, and mock us; that we may be like him who made all things, and does good to all.

Hear, my son, what the wise man saith, and store it up in thy heart.

It is better, saith he, to go to the house of mourning, than to go to the house of feasting; for that is the end of all men; and the living will lay it to his heart.

LESSON XL.

Sorrow is better than laughter; for by the sadness of the looks the heart is made better.

The heart of the wise is in the house of mourning; but the heart of the fool is in the house of mirth.

A wicked doer giveth heed to false lips; and a liar giveth ear to a naughty tongue.

Children's children are the crown of old men; and the glory of children are their fathers.

LESSON XLI.

Let a bear, robbed of her whelps, meet a man, rather than a fool in his folly.

He that is first in his own cause, seemeth just; but his neighbour cometh and searcheth him.

The highway of the upright is to depart from evil; he that keepeth his way doth preserve his soul.

The hoary head is a crown of glory; if it be found in the way of goodness.

He that is slow to anger, is better than the mighty: and he that ruleth his spirit, than he that taketh a city.

LESSON XLII.

The Lord knoweth the way of the righteous, but the way of the ungodly shall perish.

A wise son maketh a glad father; but a foolish son is the heaviness of his mother.

The way of a fool is right in his own eyes; but he that hearkeneth to good counsel is wise.

When a man's ways please the Lord, he maketh even his enemies to be at peace with him.

LESSON XLIII.

The fear of the Lord prolongeth days; but the years of the wicked shall be shortened.

Chasten thy son while there is hope, and let not thy soul spare for his crying; correct thy son and he shall give thee rest; yea, he will give delight unto thy soul.

Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it.

LESSON XLV.

The heavens declare the glory of the Lord; and the firmament sheweth his handy work.

One day telleth another, and one night doth certify another.

There is neither speech nor language, but their voices are heard among them.

Their sound is gone out into all lands; and their words into the ends of the world.

LESSON XLVI.

There are six things which the Lord doth hate; yea, seven that he cannot abide.

A proud look, a lying tongue, and hands that shed innocent blood.

An heart that deviseth wicked things, and feet that are swift in running to do mischief.

A false witness that speaketh lies, and he that soweth discord among brethren.

LESSON XLVII.

FROM THE OECONOMY OF HUMAN LIFE.

Bow down your heads unto the dust, O ye inhabitants of the earth! Be silent and receive with reverence, instruction from on high.

Wheresoever the sun doth shine, wheresoever the wind doth blow, wheresoever there is an ear to hear, and a mind to conceive, there let the precepts of life be made known, let the maxims of truth be honoured and obeyed.

LESSON XLVIII.

All things proceed from God. His power is unbounded, his wisdom is from eternity, and his goodness endureth for ever.

He sitteth on his throne in the centre, and the breath of his mouth giveth life to the world.

He toucheth the stars with his finger and they run their course rejoicing.

On the wings of the wind he walketh abroad, and performeth his will through all the regions of unlimited space.

LESSON XLIX.

Order, and grace, and beauty, spring from his hand.

The voice of wisdom speaketh in all his works; but the human understanding comprehendeth it not.

The shadow of knowledge passeth over the mind of man as a dream; he seeth as in the dark, he reasoneth, and is deceived.

But the wisdom of God is as the light of heaven; he reasoneth not, his mind is the fountain of truth.

Justice and mercy wait before his throne; benevolence and love enlighten his countenance for ever.

LESSON L.

Who is like unto the Lord in glory? Who in power shall contend with the Almighty? Hath he any equal in wisdom? Can any in goodness be compared unto him?

He it is, O man, who hath created thee! thy station on earth is fixed by his appointment: The powers of thy mind are the gifts of his goodness, the wonders of thy frame are the work of his hand.

Hear then his voice, for it is gracious; and he that obeyeth shall establish his soul in peace.

LESSON LI.

From the creatures of God let man learn wisdom and apply to himself the instruction they give.

Go to the desert my son; observe the young stork of the wilderness, let him speak to thy heart: he beareth on his wings his aged sire, he lodgeth him in safety and supplieth him with food.

The piety of a child is sweeter than honey; yea, more delicious than the honey comb.

LESSON LII.

THE PRODIGAL SON.

A CERTAIN man had two sons: and the younger of them said to his father; Father give me the portion of goods that falleth to me; and he divided unto them his living.

And soon after, the younger son gathered all he had together, and took a journey into a far country and there wasted his substance in riotous living.

And when he had spent all, there arose a mighty famine in that land; and he began to be in want.

LESSON LIII.

And he went and joined himself to a citizen of that country, who sent him out into the fields to feed swine.

And his hunger was so great, that he would fain have filled his belly with the husks which the swine did eat; but no man gave him any.

And when he came to himself, he said, How many hired servants are there in my father's house, who have bread enough, and to spare, and I perish here with hunger.

LESSON LIV.

I will arise and go to my father, and will say unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven and before thee; and am no more worthy to be called thy son: make me as one of thy hired servants.

And he arose and came to his father. But when he was yet a great way off, his father saw him, and had compassion, and ran, and fell on his neck, and kissed him.

And the son said unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven, and in thy sight, and am no more worthy to be called thy son.

But the father said unto his servants, Bring forth the best robe, and put it on him, and put a ring on his hand, and shoes on his feet.

And bring hither the fatted calf, and kill it; And let us eat and be merry.

LESSON LV.

Think now my dear child, of the great love and goodness of this tender parent.

Who was willing to receive, even with open arms, his poor repenting son.

Although he had been so bad as to leave his father's house, and spend his precious time in vanity.

Yet because he was returned, and so truly humble, that he thought himself no more worthy to be called a son; but was willing to be made as one of the servants; he not only received him, but clothed him also; and that with the best robe too.

LESSON LVI.

From all who dwell below the skies,
Let the Creator's praise arise;
Let the Redeemer's name be sung,
Through every land by every tongue.

Eternal are thy mercies, Lord,
Eternal truth attends thy word;
Thy praise shall sound from shore to shore,
'Till suns shall rise and set no more.

LESSON LVII.

Good children, who behave prettily, and whose faces and hands are clean, are always the first objects that attract the eye of a stranger on entering a house. A gentleman asked little Mary one day whether she could read, yes sir, she replied, and immediately ran and got her book and read the following story:

The little Girl, the Sparrow, the Bee, and the Ant.

WHO'LL come and play with me here under the tree,
My sisters have left me alone:
My sweet little Sparrow come hither to me,
And play with me while they are gone.

O no, little lady, I can't come, indeed,
I've no time to idle away,
I've got all my dear little children to feed,
And my nest to new cover with hay.

My sweet pretty Bee, do not buzz in that flow'r,
But come here and play with me, do;
The Sparrow won't come and stay with me an hour,
But say, pretty Bee—will not you?

O no, little lady, for do not you see,
Those must work who would prosper and thrive,
If I play they would call me a sad idle Bee
And perhaps turn me out of the hive.

Stop! stop! little Ant, do not run off so fast
Wait with me a little and play;
I hope I shall find a companion at last,
You are not so busy as they.

O no little lady, I can't stay with you,
We're not made to play but to labour;
I always have something or other to do,
If not for myself, for a neighbour.

What then, have they all some employment but me,
Who lie lounging here like a dunce?
O then like the Ant, and Sparrow, and Bee,
I'll go to my lesson at once.

LESSON LVIII.

Caroline and Amelia have had a fine morning walk. They met their brothers Frederick and William, and they all returned cheerful and happy.

Many things that are used in this country, come from other places.—Figs and raisins, oranges and lemons, come from Spain, Italy and Portugal.

Nutmegs, cinnamon, cloves, pepper, and other spices, come from the East Indies.

Tobacco grows in Virginia; Indigo in Carolina.—Tea grows in China; Coffee in Turkey and the West Indies. Prunes and olives grow in France and Spain.

Gold and silver come from Mexico and Peru; Marble from Italy and Turkey; and ivory from Africa.

Diamonds, pearls, and other precious stones, are found in the East Indies and in South America.

LESSON LIX.

THE HISTORY OF JESUS.

In the days of Herod, the king of Judea, the angel of the Lord was sent unto a virgin whose name was Mary:

And the angel came in unto her and said, Hail, thou that art highly favoured, the Lord is with thee; blessed art thou among women.

And when she saw the angel, she was troubled, and cast in her mind what manner of saying this should be.

And the angel said unto her, Fear not, Mary, for thou hast found favour with God.

Behold, thou shalt conceive and bring forth a son, and shalt call his name JESUS.

He shall be great and shall be called the Son of the Highest; and the Lord God shall give him the throne of his father David.

And he shall reign over the house of Jacob for ever, and of his kingdom there shall be no end.

LESSON LX.

And the child Jesus grew, and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom, and the grace of God was upon him.

And when he was twelve years old he went up with his parents to the feast, after the custom of the Jews.

And when the days of the feast were over, the people went home; but the child Jesus was still in the city, and Joseph and Mary knew it not.

And when they had gone a day's journey, they found he was not with them; then they sought him amongst their kinsfolk.

And when they found him not, they turned back again to the city to seek him.

LESSON LXI.

And after three days, they found him in the temple, sitting in the midst of the doctors, both hearing them and asking them questions.

And all that heard him were amazed at his understanding and answers.

And when they saw him, his mother said unto him, Son, why hast thou dealt thus with us? Behold, thy father and I have sought thee with sorrow.

And he said unto them, How is it that ye sought me? knew ye not that I must be about my Father's business? Then he went down with Joseph and his mother Mary, and was subject unto them.

LESSON LXII.

And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favour both with God and man.

And when he began to be about thirty years of age, being full of the Holy Ghost, he was led by the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil.

And Jesus was there forty days and forty nights tempted of Satan, all this time he did eat nothing.

And when the devil had ended all his temptations, finding he could prevail nothing, he left him, and behold, angels came and ministered unto him.

LESSON LXIII.

And Jesus returned in the power of the Spirit into Galilee; and taught in their synagogues, being glorified of all.

Now it came to pass in process of time, after Jesus had wrought many mighty miracles, and had preached the everlasting gospel of peace to many nations; teaching them the right way to heaven, and pointing out the path that leads to glory; that in return for such great goodness, the Jews conspired against him and sought means to kill him.

And Satan entered into Judas, who was one of the twelve apostles; and he went his way unto the chief priests and captains to betray Jesus unto them.

LESSON LXIV.

Then were the rulers glad when they saw Judas was come to betray his Lord and Master; and they agreed to give him money, and sent a band of men with him to take Jesus.

And when they had taken him, and had brought him into the high-priest's house, behold, they that held him, mocked him and smote him.

And when they had blindfolded him, they struck him on the face, and asked him, saying, Prophesy, who is it that smote thee. And many other things wickedly spoke they against him.

LESSON LXV.

And after they had thus buffeted, and mocked, and even spit upon our dear Lord, they at length killed him, nailing him to a cross.

Thus died the Son of the Most High, our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, in order to save poor fallen man.

Yea, to save us from our sins, he left the bosom of his holy Father, and took on himself the likeness of sinful flesh; and even suffered the death of the cross, and his body to be laid in the grave.

And all this for our sakes, that we might live and become heirs of heaven and children of God.

LESSON LXVI.

THE BOY OF DUNDEE.

A POOR widow at Dundee, in Scotland, used to spin and work very hard, in order that she might maintain herself and her little son. She could not read; but she wished her son might learn, and she sent him to school. As he took pains he learned to read very well.

When he was about twelve years of age, his mother had a paralytick stroke, and lost the use of her limbs: so she was obliged to lie in bed all day long, and she could not spin or work any more.

As she had not been able to save any money, she could not hire any body to clean her house, and to work for her; and she was very much distressed. A poor woman who was her neighbour used sometimes to call in to assist her, and to do little jobs for her: but her son was her great comfort. He said within himself; "I will not let my mother die for want. I will work for her: I will maintain her. God, I hope, will bless me, and prosper my work."

LESSON LXVII.

He went to a manufactory that was in the town where he lived; and got some work. Every day he went to the manufactory, and worked hard, harder than if he worked for himself alone; and in the evening he brought his wages to his poor mother. Before he went in the morning, he always cleaned the room for his mother; and got their breakfast ready; and did all he could to make her comfortable whilst he was absent.

This good boy thought if his mother could read, she could amuse and employ herself, when he was not with her: so he took a great deal of pains and taught her to read. And when she had learned, she was highly delighted; "Now," said she, "I am very happy. I am, indeed confined to my bed, and I cannot work: but I can read the Bible, and that is a great comfort to me; and I have one of the best and kindest of sons."

LESSON LXVIII.

THE RICH MAN AND LAZARUS.

There was a certain rich man, who was clothed with purple and fine linen, and fared sumptuously every day.

And there was a certain beggar named Lazarus, who was laid at his gate full of sores, and desired to be fed with the crumbs which fell from the rich man's table: moreover the dogs came and licked his sores.

And it came to pass that the beggar died and was carried by the angels into Abraham's bosom. The rich man also died and was buried.

LESSON LXIX.

And in hell he lifted up his eyes, being in torments, and seeth Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his bosom.

And he cried, and said, Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus, that he may dip the tip of his finger in water and cool my tongue; for I am tormented in this flame.

And Abraham said, Son, remember that thou in thy lifetime receivedst thy good things, and likewise Lazarus evil things; but now he is comforted and thou art tormented.

LESSON LXX.

And besides all this, between us and you there is a great gulf fixed; so that they which would pass from hence to you cannot; neither can they pass to us that would come from thence.

Then he said, I pray thee therefore, Father, that thou wouldst send him to my father's house: for I have five brethren: that he may testify unto them, lest they also come into this place of torment.

Abraham saith unto him, They have Moses and the prophets; let them hear them.

LESSON LXXI.

And he said, Nay, Father Abraham; but if one went unto them from the dead, they would repent.

And he said unto him, If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither would they be persuaded though one rose from the dead.

By this parable of the rich man and Lazarus, which was put forth by our dear Lord himself, we may see, what is to be the portion of the proud, who riot in affluence, glutting themselves with the Lord's gifts; but forget the great Giver.

LESSON LXXII.

THE GOOD SAMARITAN.

A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves, which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead.

And by chance there came down a certain priest that way; and when he saw him he passed by on the other side. And likewise a Levite, when he was at that place, came and looked on him, and passed by on the other side.

But a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was; and when he saw him, he had compassion on him, and went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn, and took care of him.

And on the morrow, when he departed, he took out two pence, and gave them to the host and said unto him, Take care of him; and whatsoever thou spendest more, when I come again, I will repay thee.

Which now of these three thinkest thou, was neighbour unto him that fell among thieves? And he said, He that shewed mercy on him. Then said Jesus unto him, Go, and do thou likewise.

LESSON LXXIII.

The parable of the Ten Virgins. Mat. xxv.

Then shall the kingdom of heaven be likened unto ten virgins, who took their lamps, and went forth to meet the bridegroom. And five of them were wise and five were foolish.

They that were foolish, took their lamps, and took no oil with them: But the wise took oil in their vessels, with their lamps.

While the bridegroom tarried they all slumbered and slept.

LESSON LXXIV.

And at midnight there was a cry made, "Behold the bridegroom cometh; go ye forth to meet him."

Then all those virgins arose and trimmed their lamps.

And the foolish said unto the wise, "Give us of your oil, for our lamps are gone out."

But the wise answered, saying, "Not so, lest there be not enough for us and you, but go ye rather to them that sell, and buy for yourselves."

LESSON LXXV.

And while they went to buy, the bridegroom came; and they that were ready went in with him to the marriage, and the door was shut.

Afterwards came also the other virgins, saying, Lord, Lord, open unto us.

But he answered and said, Verily I say unto you, I know you not.

Watch therefore, for ye know neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son of Man cometh.

LESSON LXXVI.

When the Son of Man (our blessed Saviour) shall come in his glory, and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory.

And before him shall be gathered all nations; and he shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats.

And he shall set the sheep on his right hand, but the goats on the left.

LESSON LXXVII.

Then shall the king say unto them on the right hand, Come ye blessed of my father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world.

For I was an hungered, and ye gave me meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink: I was a stranger, and ye took me in: Naked, and ye clothed me: I was sick, and ye visited me: I was in prison, and ye came unto me.

LESSON LXXVIII.

Then shall the righteous answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungered, and fed thee? Or thirsty, and gave thee drink?

When saw we thee a stranger, and took thee in? Or naked, and clothed thee?

Or when saw we thee sick, or in prison, and came unto thee?

And the king shall answer and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, in as much as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me.

LESSON LXXIX.

Then shall he say also unto them on the left hand, Depart from me ye cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels.

For I was an hungered, and ye gave me no meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me no drink: I was a stranger, and ye took me not in: Naked, and ye clothed me not: Sick, and in prison, and ye visited me not.

LESSON LXXX.

Then shall they also answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungered, or athirst, or a stranger, or naked, or sick, or in prison, and did not minister unto thee?

Then shall he answer them, saying, Verily I say unto you, in as much as ye did it not to one of the least of these, ye did it not to me.

And these shall go away into everlasting punishment: But the righteous into life eternal.

SELECT SENTENCES.

Do to others as you would wish they should do to you.

How pleasant it is to live with persons who are kind and cheerful, and willing to oblige; who never take or keep, what does not belong to them; and who always speak the truth.

LESSON LXXXI.

FROM THE OECONOMY OF HUMAN LIFE.

Of the human frame and structure.

WEAK and ignorant as thou art, O man! humble as thou oughtest to be, O child of the dust! wouldst thou raise thy thoughts to infinite wisdom? wouldst thou see Omnipotence displayed before thee? contemplate thine own frame.

Fearfully and wonderfully art thou made: Praise therefore thy Creator with awe, and rejoice before him with reverence.

Wherefore of all creatures art thou only erect, but that thou shouldst behold his works; wherefore art thou to behold, but that thou mayest admire them; wherefore to admire, but that thou mayest adore their and thy Creator.

Wherefore is consciousness reposed in thee alone? and whence is it derived to thee?

It is not in flesh to think: It is not in bones to reason. The lion knoweth not that worms shall eat him; the ox perceiveth not that he is fed for slaughter.

LESSON LXXXII.

Something is added to thee unlike to what thou seest: Something informs thy clay, higher than all that is the object of thy senses. Behold! what is it?

Thy body remaineth perfect after it is fled, therefore it is no part of it: It is immaterial, therefore it is eternal: It is free to act, therefore it is accountable for its actions.

Knoweth the ass the use of food, because his teeth mow down the herbage? or standeth the crocodile erect, although his backbone is straight as thine?

God formed thee as he had formed these: After them all wert thou created; superiority and command were given thee over all, and of his own breath did he communicate to thee thy principle of knowledge.

Know thyself then the pride of his creation, the link uniting divinity and matter! behold a part of God himself in thee! Remember thine own dignity, nor dare descend to evil or to meanness.

Who planted terror in the tail of the serpent? who clothed the neck of the horse with thunder? Even he who hath instructed thee to crush the one under thy feet, and tame the other to thy purposes.

LESSON LXXXIII.

OF THE USE OF THE SENSES.

VAUNT not of thy body, because it was first formed; nor of thy brain, because therein thy soul resideth. Is not the master of the house more honourable than its walls?

The ground must be prepared, before corn can be planted: the potter must build his furnace, before he can make his porcelain.

As the breath of heaven sayeth unto the waters of the deep, This way shalt thy billows roll, and no other; thus high, shall they raise their fury: So let thy spirit, O man! actuate and direct thy flesh; so let it repress its wildness.

Thy soul is the monarch of thy frame: suffer not its subjects to rebel against it.

Thy body is as the globe of the earth, thy bones the pillars that sustain it on its basis.

LESSON LXXXIV.

As the ocean giveth rise to springs, whose waters return again into its bosom through the rivers; so runneth thy life from the heart outwards, and so returneth it unto its place again.

Do not both retain their course for ever? Behold! the same God ordained them.

Is not thy nose the channel to perfumes? thy mouth the path to delicacies? Yet know thou that perfumes long smelt become offensive, that delicacies destroy the appetite they flatter.

Are not thine eyes the centinels that watch for thee? yet how often are they unable to distinguish truth from errour.

Keep thy soul in moderation, teach thy spirits to be attentive to its good; so shall these, its ministers, be always to thee conveyances of truth.

LESSON LXXXV.

Thine hand is it not a miracle? Is there in the creation aught like unto it? wherefore was it given thee, but that thou mightest stretch it out to the assistance of thy brother.

Why of all things living art thou alone made capable of blushing? The world shall read thy shame upon thy face; therefore do nothing shameful.

Fear and dismay, why rob they thy countenance of its ruddy splendour? Avoid guilt, and thou shalt know that fear is beneath thee; that dismay is unmanly.

Wherefore to thee alone speak shadows in the visions of thy pillow? Reverence them: for know that dreams are from on high.

Thou, man, alone canst speak. Wonder at thy glorious prerogative; and pay to him who gave it thee a rational and welcome praise, teaching thy children wisdom, instructing the offspring of thy loins in piety.

LESSON LXXXVI.

FRANKLIN'S MAXIMS.

Train up a child in the way that he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it. Choose what is most fit, and custom will make it most agreeable. Improve by other men's faults, rather than censure them.

As the old cock crows, the young one learns.—Example is stronger than precept. Such is the father, such is the son. Children learn by imitation. Men acquire virtue or vice more from education than from nature. It is hard to teach an old dog new tricks.

The young are slaves to novelty, the old to custom. Custom is the plague of wise men and the idol of fools. Superstition is the spleen of the soul. A saddle for the horse, a bridle for the ass, and a rod for the fool's back.

Those who set out to live by their wits, often break for want of stock. Diligence will overcome difficulties. Continual dropping will wear a stone. Little strokes fell great oaks.

LESSON LXXXVII.

A rolling stone will gather no moss.
I never knew an oft removed tree,
Nor yet an oft removed family,
That throve so well as those that settled be.

Three removes are as bad as a fire.

Seize time by the forelock. Time and tide will wait for no man. Never put that off till to-morrow, which you can do to-day. A stitch in time saves nine. Lost time is never found again. What we call time enough, always proves little enough. Make hay while the sun shines.

If you love life do not waste your time, for time is the stuff life is made of. He that rises late may trot all day, and shall not be able to overtake his business at night. Drive thy work; let not that drive thee, as poor Richard says.

Early to bed and early to rise, makes a man healthy, and wealthy, and wise. Diligence is the mother of good luck. God will help them that help themselves. Plough deep while sluggards sleep, and you shall have corn to sell and keep.

If you would have a good servant, serve yourself.—— Handle your tools without mittens. A cat in gloves catches no mice.

Many estates are spent in the getting;
Since women for tea forsook spinning and knitting;
And men for punch forsook hewing and splitting.

LESSON LXXXVIII.

If you would be rich, think of saving, as well as earning. A penny saved is as good as a penny earned. The Indies have not made Spain rich, because her outgoes were more than her incomes.

Luxury, game, and deceit,
Make the wealth small, and the wants great.

What maintains one vice, would bring up two children. Beware of small expenses: Many a little makes a mickle.

A small leak will sink a great ship. Fools will make feasts, and wise men eat them. Feasts in the parlour put out the kitchen fire.

He that goes borrowing, goes sorrowing. A farmer on his legs is higher than a gentleman on his knees.—— Always taking out of the meal tub, and never putting in, will soon come to the bottom. When money is gone, we know the want of it.

For age and want save while you may,
No morning sun lasts a whole day.

Pride must fall. Pride is as loud a beggar as want, and a great deal more saucy. Pride breakfasted with plenty, dined with poverty, and supped with infamy.—Cut your coat according to your cloth. Great minds and small means ruin many.

Vessels large may venture more,
But little boats should keep near shore.

LESSON LXXXIX.

Rather than run in debt, wear your old coat. A patch on a man's back is not so disgraceful as a writ.—Experience keeps a dear school, but fools will learn in no other. We can give advice, but we cannot give conduct. If you will not hear Reason, she will rap your knuckles.

Silence is every where safe. Be more ready to hear than to speak. You have two ears and but one tongue; therefore you should hear twice and speak once. The prating fool shall fall. If you cannot keep your own secrets, you must not blame others for telling them.

A man of words and not of deeds,
Is like a garden full of weeds.

The tongue is like a race horse; it runs faster the less weight it carries. The shallow brook warbles, while the deep water is still. An empty cask makes a great noise. Hold your tongue, and no body will know that you are a fool. To say little and perform much is the characteristick of a great mind. When you have nothing to say, say nothing.

[Would it not be well that the teacher exercise his pupil in the above table, thus:

Mast. In what quarter of the globe is France situated?

Pup. In Europe.

Mast. Which is the metropolis of France?

Pup. Paris, and it is said to contain eight hundred thousand souls.

Mast. Is England in Europe?

Pup. Yes, and London is the great capital of the United Kingdoms of England, Ireland and Scotland.

This method, judiciously applied by the Teacher, could not, we think, fail of hastening on the Pupil to a thirst for knowledge and useful inquiry, and tend very much to enlarge his mind, and open his faculties to thought and reflection.

MY MOTHER.

WHO fed me from her gentle breast,
And hush'd me in her arms to rest,
And on my cheek sweet kisses prest?
My mother.

When sleep forsook my open eye,
Who was it sang sweet hushaby,
And rock'd me that I should not cry?
My mother.

Who sat and watch'd my infant head,
When sleeping on my cradle bed,
And tears of sweet affection shed?
My mother.

When pain and sickness made me cry,
Who gaz'd upon my heavy eye,
And wept for fear that I should die?
My mother.

Who drest my doll in clothes so gay,
And taught me pretty how to play,
And minded all I'd got to say?
My mother.

Who ran to help me when I fell,
And would some pretty story tell,
Or kiss the place to make it well?
My mother.

Who taught my infant lips to pray,
And love God's holy book and day,
And walk in wisdom's pleasant way?
My mother.

And can I ever cease to be,
Affectionate and kind to thee,
Who wast so very kind to me?
My mother.

Ah! no, the thought I cannot bear,
And if God please my life to spare,
I hope I shall reward thy care,
My mother.

When thou art feeble, old and gray,
My healthy arm shall be thy stay,
And I will sooth thy pains away,
My mother.

And when I see thee hang thy head,
'Twill be my turn to watch thy bed,
And tears of sweet affection shed,
My mother.

For God who lives above the skies,
Would look with vengeance in his eyes,
If I should ever dare despise,
My mother.

BEASTS, BIRDS, AND FISHES.

THE Dog will come when he is call'd,
The Cat will walk away.
The Monkey's cheek is very bald,
The Goat is fond of play.

The Parrot is a prate-apace,
Yet knows not what she says;
The noble Horse will win the race,
Or draw you in a chaise.

The Pig is not a feeder nice,
The Squirrel loves a nut,
The Wolf will eat you in a trice,
The Buzzard's eyes are shut.

The Lark sings high up in the air,
The Linnet on the tree;
The Swan he has a bosom fair,
And who so proud as he?

O yes, the Peacock is more proud,
Because his tail has eyes,
The Lion roars so very loud,
He fills you with surprise.

The Raven's coat is shining black,
Or rather raven gray,
The Camel's bunch is on his back,
The Owl abhors the day.

The Sparrow steals the cherry ripe,
The Elephant is wise,
The Blackbird charms you with his pipe,
The false Hyena cries.

The Hen guards well her little chicks,
The useful Cow is meek,
The Beaver builds with mud and sticks,
The Lapwing loves to squeak.

The little Wren is very small,
The Humming-Bird is less;
The Lady-Bird is least of all,
And beautiful in dress.

The Pelican she loves her young,
The Stork his father loves;
The Woodcock's bill is very long,
And innocent are Doves.

The spotted Tiger's fond of blood,
The Pigeons feed on peas,
The Duck will gobble in the mud,
The Mice will eat your cheese.

A Lobster's black, when boil'd he's red,
The harmless Lamb must bleed,
The Codfish has a clumsy head,
The Goose on grass will feed.

The Lady in her gown of silk,
The little Worm may thank.
The sick man drinks the Ass's milk;
The Weasel's long and lank.

The Buck gives us a venison dish,
When hunted for the spoil;
The Shark eats up the little fish,
The Whale he gives us oil.

The Glow-Worm shines the darkest night,
With candle in his tail;
The Turtle is the cit's delight,
It wears a coat of mail.

In Germany they hunt the Boar,
The Bee brings honey home,
The Ant lays up a winter store,
The Bear loves honey-comb.

The Eagle has a crooked beak,
The Plaice has orange spots;
The Starling, if he's taught, will speak;
The Ostrich walks and trots.

The child that does not these things know,
May yet be thought a dunce;
But I will up in knowledge grow,
As youth can come but once.

ON THE SHORTNESS OF HUMAN LIFE.

LIKE as the Damask rose you see,
Or like the blossom on the tree:
Or like the dainty Flower of May,
Or like the Morning of the day:
Or like the Sun, or like the Shade:
Or like the Gourd which Jonas had:
Even such is Man! whose thread is spun,
Drawn out and cut and so 'tis done.
Withers the rose; the blossom blasts;
The flower fades; the morning hastes;
The sun is set; the shadows fly;
The gourd consumes—so Mortals die.

TABLE XXXVI.

Names of the principal places in the United States, and in what country, state, or district, situated, alphabetically arranged, and divided in the way in which they are usually pronounced.

Nat chez, the principal trading town of the state of Mississippi. The French erected a fort here, called fort Rosalee, (whose parapets are yet to be seen) about the time New Orleans was settled, nearly one hundred years ago. The Natchez Indians, a very ancient and unusually civilized nation of Aborigines, had possession of the country long before the French settled in it. Falling out with them, however, they fell upon their fort on the Eve of St. Andrew, in 1729, and massacred the troops in it and all the inhabitants, excepting a few women and children. The next year France sent over troops, which, joined with those of the country, (making in all fifteen hundred) pursued the murderous natives over the Mississippi, and completely extirpated them, so that, at this time, there is scarcely a soul of the Natchez race of Indians living, and no remains of them but the earthen forts they raised, and their country, which has been called after them. In justification of this tragical affair, it must be observed, that the natives had used the French with a great deal of friendship and hospitality, but getting a bad return for their numerous indulgences and kind offices, their savage blood broke forth, and the massacre of the French garrison and all the other inhabitants, was the consequence, followed by the extermination of their race. The situation of Natchez is high and healthful, and in north latitude thirty-one degrees, thirty-three minutes. It is a great landing place for the Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee trading boats, and where many valuable cargoes are disposed of.

On ta ri o, a lake next in range below Erie, and about nine miles below the Falls of Niagara. This, with the five great lakes above it, is half British, half American water, the line running through the middle of them.

Ou at chi ta, (Washita) Springs, very curious hot springs on the head waters of the Ouatchita river, and not far from the Arkansas, Missouri territory. The heat of the water of these springs is so great that it will boil a kettle in a few minutes, and cook meat and other food without the assistance of fire. They are now much visited for the cure of many diseases incident to human life. The springs are in latitude thirty-four degrees, thirty-one minutes north. It is calculated they deliver three thousand seven hundred and seventy-one hogsheads of hot water in every twenty-four hours.

Ou at chi ta, riv er, a considerable river of Louisiana, explored in the year 1804, by Doctor Hunter and Mr. William Dunbar, by order of the United States' executive. It heads near the Arkansas river, and enters, by way of the Black, into Red river, thirty-one miles above the mouth of the latter. Its hot springs are curious and celebrated.

O pe lou sas, a fine salubrious and fertile district of country in the state of Louisiana, about thirty miles west of the Mississippi, and below the Red river. It is

Of the division of time. Sixty seconds make a minute, 60 minutes an hour, 24 hours a day, that is, a day and a night, for our days begin at 12 o'clock at night; 7 days a week, 4 weeks a month, 12 months a year, 100 years a century.

A vocabulary of words, principally relating to the sciences, defined, and spelled and marked in a manner that cannot fail to lead to a correct pronunciation. We would recommend the pupil to be obliged to give the meaning of the word as well as the spelling when standing up in class; this method we conceive would be a rational and very useful exercise to the young learner, and we hope the teacher will not fail to put it in practice.

TABLE XL.

OF GRAMMAR.

GRAMMAR is commonly divided into four parts—orthography, etymology, syntax and prosody.

Orthography treats of the letters, their powers and combinations in syllables; or, it teaches the true manner of writing words, called spelling.

Etymology treats of the derivation of words from their radicals or primitives, and of their various inflections and modifications to express person, number, case, sex, time and mode.

Syntax explains the true mode of constructing sentences.

Prosody treats of the quantity or accent of Syllables and the laws of versification

Explanation of vowels and consonants, syllables and words.

Letters, Syllables, &c.

A letter is the least part of a word.

The letters of the English alphabet, are twenty-six.

Letters are divided into vowels and consonants.

The Vowels are a e i o u, and sometimes w and y.*

The Consonants b c d f g h j k l m n p q r s t v w x y z.

A vowel can be sounded by itself.

A consonant cannot be sounded distinctly by itself.

A diphthong is two vowels forming but one syllable.

A triphthong is three vowels forming but one syllable: as, eau in beau

A proper diphthong has both the vowels sounded: as, oi, in voice, ou, in ounce.

An improper diphthong has but one of the vowels sounded: as, ea, in eagle, oa, in boat.

A syllable is so much of a word as can be pronounced at once: as a, an, ant, bit ter, but ter fly.

Words are sounds, used as signs of our thoughts.

A word of one syllable, is called a monosyllable; a word of two syllables, a dissyllable; a word of three syllables, a trisyllable; and a word of four or more syllables a polysyllable.

* W and Y are consonants, when they begin a word or syllable; in other situations, they are vowels.

Words of two or more syllables have an accent on one of the syllables.

Accent signifies that stress of the voice, which is laid on one syllable, to distinguish it from the rest. Thus, in ápple, the accent is on the first syllable; and in aríse, it is on the second syllable. The mark placed above the syllable, and which denotes the accent, is also called the accent.

Nouns, Pronouns, &c.

A noun or substantive, is the name of any thing: as, sun, moon, stars.

Every word that makes sense of itself, is a noun: as, John, Charles, Pittsburgh; or that takes, a, an, or the before it: as, a tree, an apple, the sun.

A pronoun is the word used instead of a noun, to avoid repeating the noun: as, I, he, she, they; "Charles is a good boy, he obeys his parents, and he speaks the truth;" instead of saying, "Charles is a good boy; Charles obeys his parents, and Charles speaks the truth."

An adjective is a word that signifies the quality of a substantive: as good, bad, tall, short; a good girl, a tall tree.

An adjective may be generally known, by its making sense with the word thing, or any particular noun added to it; as, a good thing, a bad thing, a sweet apple.

A verb is a word that signifies being, doing, or suffering: as, I am, she writes, he is beaten.

Any word is a verb, when we can add a pronoun to it. Thus, eat, read, play, are verbs; because we can say, I eat, she reads, he plays. A verb is also known by its making sense with the word to, put before it; as, to eat, to read, to play.

The singular number signifies one object; as, a tree, the house.

The plural number signifies more than one object: as, trees, houses.

Genders.

Gender is the distinction of sex. There are three genders, the Masculine, the Feminine, and the Neuter.

The masculine gender denotes animals of the male kind: as, a man, a horse, a bull.

The feminine gender signifies animals of the female kind: as a woman, a duck, a hen.

The neuter gender denotes objects which are neither males nor females; as a field, a house, a garden.

Some substantives naturally neuter, are, by a figure of speech, converted into the masculine or feminine gender; as, when we say of the sun, he is setting, and of a ship, she sails well, &c.

Explanation of the Pauses and other Characters used in Writing.

A comma (,) is a pause of one syllable—A semicolon (;) two—A colon (:) four—A period (.) six—An interrogation point (?) shows when a question is asked; as What do you see?—An exclamation point (!) is a mark of wonder or surprise, as, O the folly of sinners!—The pause of these two points is the same as a colon or a period, and the sentence should usually be closed with a raised tone of voice.

( ) A Parenthesis includes a part of a sentence, which is not necessary to make sense, and should be read quicker, and in a weaker tone of voice.

[ ] Brackets or Hooks, include words that serve to explain a foregoing word or sentence.

- A Hyphen joins words or syllables; as sea-water.

' An Apostrophe shows when a letter is omitted, as, us'd for used.

ʌ A Caret shows when a word or number of words are omitted through mistake; as, this is ʌ my book.

" A Quotation or double comma, includes a passage that is taken from some author in his own words.

☞ The Index points to some remarkable passage.

¶ The Paragraph begins a new subject.

§ The Section, is used to divide chapters.

* † ‡ ‖ An Asterisk, and other references, point to a note in the margin or bottom of a page.

Capital Letters.—Sentences should begin with a capital letter—Also every line in poetry. Proper names, which are the names of persons, places, rivers, mountains, &c. should begin with a capital. Also the name of the Supreme Being.

23 For I perceive thou art in the gall of bitterness, and in the bond of iniquity.

24 Then answered Simon and said, Pray ye to the Lord for me, that none of these things which ye have spoken come upon me.

25 And they, when they had testified and preached the word of the Lord, returned to Jerusalem, and preached the gospel in many villages of the Samaritans.

26 ¶ And the angel of the Lord spake unto Philip, saying, Arise and go toward the south, unto the way that goeth down from Jerusalem unto Gaza, which is desert.

27 And he arose and went: and behold, a man of Ethiopia, an eunuch of great authority under Candace queen of the Ethiopians, who had the charge of all her treasure, and had come to Jerusalem for to worship,

28 Was returning, and sitting in his chariot, read Esaias the prophet.

29 Then the spirit said unto Philip, Go near and join thyself unto this chariot.

30 And Philip ran thither to him and heard him read the prophet Esaias, and said, Understandest thou what thou readest?

31 And he said, How can I, except some man should guide me? and he desired Philip that he would come up, and sit with him.

32 The place of the scripture which he read, was this, He was led as a sheep to the slaughter; and as a lamb dumb before his shearer, so opened he not his mouth.

33 In his humiliation his judgment was taken away: and who shall declare his generation? for his life is taken from the earth.

34 And the eunuch answered Philip, and said, I pray thee, of whom speaketh the prophet this? of himself, or of some other man.

35 Then Philip opened his mouth, and began at the same scripture, and preached unto him Jesus.

36 And as they went on their way, they came unto a certain water: and the eunuch said, See, here is water; what doth hinder me to be baptized?

37 And Philip said, if thou believest with all thine heart, thou mayest. And he answered and said, I believe that Je-

39 And when they were come up out of the water, the spirit of the Lord caught away Philip, that the eunuch saw him no more: and he went on his way rejoicing.

40 But Philip was found at Azotus: and passing through he preached in all the cities, till he came to Cesarea.

CHAP. IX.

Saul's miraculous conversion.

AND Saul, yet breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord, went unto the high priest,

2 And desired of him letters to Damascus to the synagogues, that if he found any of this way, whether they were men or women, he might bring them bound unto Jerusalem.

3 And as he journeyed, he came near Damascus; and suddenly there shined round about him a light from heaven.

4 And he fell to the earth, and heard a voice saying unto him, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?

5 And he said, Who art thou, Lord? And the Lord said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest. It is hard for thee to kick against the pricks.

6 And he, trembling and astonished, said, Lord, what wilt thou have me to do? And the Lord said unto him, Arise, and go into the city, and it shall be told thee what thou must do.

7 And the men which journeyed with him stood speechless, hearing a voice, but seeing no man.

8 And Saul arose from the earth and when his eyes were opened, he saw no man: but they led him by the hand, and brought him into Damascus.

9 And he was three days without sight, and neither did eat nor drink.

10 ¶ And there was a certain disciple at Damascus, named Ananias; and to him said the Lord in a vision, Ananias. And he said, Behold, I am here, Lord.

11 And the Lord said unto him, Arise, and go into the street which is called straight, and enquire in the house of Judas, for one called Saul, of Tarsus: for behold, he prayeth,

12 And hath seen in a vision a man named Ananias, coming in, and putting his hand on him, that he might receive his sight.

13 Then Ananias answered, Lord, I have heard by many of this man, how 50 Hath not my hand made all these things?

51 ¶ Ye stiff-necked and uncircumcised in heart and ears, ye do always resist the Holy Ghost: as your fathers did, so do ye.

52 Which of the prophets have not your fathers persecuted? and they have slain them which shewed before the coming of the just One; of whom ye have been now the betrayers and murderers:

53 Who have received the law, by the disposition of angels, and have not kept it.

54 ¶ When they heard these things, they were cut to the heart, and they gnashed on him with their teeth.

55 But he, being full of the Holy Ghost, looked up stedfastly into heaven, and saw the glory of God, and Jesus standing on the right hand of God.

56 And said, Behold, I see the heavens opened, and the Son of man standing on the right hand of God.

57 Then they cried out with a loud voice, and stopped their ears, and ran upon him with one accord,

58 And cast him out of the city, and stoned him: and the witnesses laid down their clothes at a young man's feet, whose name was Saul.

59 And they stoned Stephen, calling upon God, and saying, Lord Jesus receive my spirit.

60 And he kneeled down, and cried with a loud voice, Lord, lay not this sin to their charge. And when he had said this he fell asleep.

CHAP. VIII.

The church planted in Samaria.

AND Saul was consenting unto his death. And at that time there was a great persecution against the church which was at Jerusalem; and they were all scattered abroad throughout the regions of Judea and Samaria, except the apostles.

2 And devout men carried Stephen to his burial, and made great lamentation over him.

3 As for Saul he made havock of the church, entering into every house, and haling men and women, committed them to prison.

4 Therefore, they that were scattered abroad, went every where preaching the word.

6 And the people with one accord gave heed unto those things which Philip spake, hearing and seeing the miracles which he did.

7 For unclean spirits, crying with loud voice, came out of many that were possessed with them: and many taken with palsies, and that were lame, were healed.

8 And there was great joy in that city.

9 But there was a certain man called Simon, which before-time in the same city used sorcery, and bewitched the people of Samaria, giving out that himself was some great one.

10 To whom they all gave heed from the least to the greatest, saying, This man is the great power of God

11 And to him they had regard, because that of long time he had bewitched them with sorceries.

12 But when they believed Philip, preaching the things concerning the kingdom of God, and the name of Jesus Christ, they were baptized both men and women.

13 Then Simon himself believed also: and when he was baptized he continued with Philip, and wondered, beholding the miracles and signs which were done.

14 Now, when the apostles which were at Jerusalem heard that Samaria had received the word of God, they sent unto them Peter and John.

15 Who, when they were come down, prayed for them that they might receive the Holy Ghost:

16 (For as yet he was fallen upon none of them: only they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus.)

17 Then laid they their hands on them, and they received the Holy Ghost.

18 And when Simon saw that, through laying on of the apostles hands, the Holy Ghost was given, he offered them money.

19 Saying, Give me also this power, that on whomsoever I lay hands, he may receive the Holy Ghost.

20 But Peter said unto him, Thy money perish with thee, because thou hast thought that the gift of God may be purchased with money.

21 Thou hast neither part nor lot in this matter: for thy heart is not right in the sight of God.

22 Repent, therefore, of this

23 For I perceive thou art in the gall of bitterness, and in the bond of iniquity.

24 Then answered Simon and said, Pray ye to the Lord for me, that none of these things which ye have spoken come upon me.

25 And they, when they had testified and preached the word of the Lord, returned to Jerusalem, and preached the gospel in many villages of the Samaritans.

26 ¶ And the angel of the Lord spake unto Philip, saying, Arise and go toward the south, unto the way that goeth down from Jerusalem unto Gaza, which is desert.

13 Then Ananias answered, Lord, I have heard by many of this man, how much evil he hath done to thy saints at 15 But the Lord said unto him, Go thy way: for he is a chosen vessel unto me, to bear my name before the Gentiles, and kings, and the children of Israel.

16 For I will shew him how great things he must suffer for my name's sake.

17 And Ananias went his way, and entered into the house; and putting his hands on him, said, Brother Saul, the Lord, (even Jesus that appeared unto thee in the way as thou camest,) hath sent me, that thou mightest receive thy sight, and be filled with the Holy Ghost.

18 And immediately there fell from his eyes as it had been scales; and he received sight forthwith, and arose and was baptized.

19 And when he had received meat, he was strengthened. Then was Saul certain days with the disciples which were at Damascus.

20 And straightway he preached Christ in the synagogues, that he is the Son of God.

21 But all that heard him were amazed, and said, Is not this he that destroyed them which called on this name in Jerusalem, and came hither for that intent, that he might bring them bound unto the chief priests?

22 But Saul increased the more in strength, and confounded the Jews which dwelt at Damascus, proving that this is very Christ.

23 ¶ And after that many days were fulfilled, the Jews took council to kill him.

24 But their laying await was known of Saul: and they watched the gates day and night to kill him.

25 Then the disciples took him by night, and let him down by the wall in a basket.

26 And when Saul was come to Jerusalem, he assayed to join himself to the disciples: but they were all afraid of him, and believed not that he was a disciple.

27 But Barnabas took him, and brought him to the apostles, and declared unto them, how he had seen the Lord in the way, and that he had spoken to him, and how he had preached boldly at Damascus in the name of Jesus.

28 And he was with them coming in, and going out at Jerusalem.

30 Which when the brethren knew, they brought him down to Cesarea, and sent him forth to Tarsus.

31 Then had the churches rest throughout all Judea, and Galilee, and Samaria, and were edified; and walking in the fear of the Lord, and in the comfort of the Holy Ghost, were multiplied.

32 ¶ And it came to pass, as Peter passed through all quarters, he came down also to the saints which dwelt at Lydda.

33 And there he found a certain man named Eneas, which had kept his bed for eight years, and was sick of the palsy.

34 And Peter said unto him, Eneas, Jesus Christ maketh thee whole: arise, and make thy bed. And he arose immediately.

35 And all that dwelt at Lydda, and Saron, saw him, and turned to the Lord.

36 ¶ Now, there was at Joppa a certain disciple named Tabitha, which, by interpretation, is called Dorcas: this woman was full of good works, and alms-deeds which she did.

37 And it came to pass, in those days, that she was sick, and died: whom when they had washed, they laid her in an upper chamber.

38 And forasmuch as Lydda was nigh to Joppa, and the disciples had heard that Peter was there, they sent unto him two men, desiring him that he would not delay to come to them.

39 Then Peter arose and went with them. When he was come they brought him into the upper chamber: and all the widows stood by him weeping, and shewing the coats and garments which Dorcas made while she was with them.

40 But Peter put them all forth, and kneeled down and prayed, and turning him to the body, said, Tabitha, arise. And she opened her eyes: and when she saw Peter, she sat up.

41 And he gave her his hand, and lifted her up; and when he had called the saints and widows, he presented her alive.

42 And it was known throughout all Joppa; and many believed in the Lord.

43 And it came to pass, that he tarried many days in Joppa; with one Simon a tanner.
